Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, who has interest of bettering the sanitary conditions of the cities and counties under the direction of the State Board of Health and who for the past week has been making an inspection of Louisville and Jefferson county industries and public institutions under the auspices of the Federation of Women's Clubs, told some stubborn facts about existing conditions to a large audience at Macquely's Theater yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Crane spoke for two hours in a plain but forceful way. Many who went to the theater with the idea of enjoying everything in Louisville condemned the same conditions as horrible or wicked or worse, and believed that the people of this city should be

While Mrs. Crane did not mince words in condemning certain conditions, yet her own heart was devoted to bettering these things, and she was anxious to see how these things might be remedied in Louisville be made a better and cleaner city. She praised some institutions in our city, although stating that probably some beneficial changes might be made. The speaker was severe in her word against the sanitary conditions of some of the slaughter houses, some of the markets in the city. She also pointed the municipality in general for the wretched condition and arrangement of the city hospital. She declared that it was a relief of almost thirty and a new one could not be built too soon.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. J. M. Matthews, president of the Kentucky State Board of Health. On the stage were many of the leading physicians of the city. Mayor Grinstead and his secretary, Paul Burdette, and other city

Mr. Crane had been brought to Louisville by the State Board of Health and was quarantined in the city hospital, because they know of her knowledge of affairs and of the work she had been doing.

"There is no more competent person in the United States for doing the work of the State Board of Health than I. People may not understand, and therefore have some prejudices against what she has done, but I have been with her for seventeen years and I know it is a thankless job, no matter how strong your convictions are. I have seen her in the conditions of the State. This is a beautiful city and we are proud of Louisville. I have seen her in the worst conditions of a disgrace to any civilized community. We have surface wells here, yet we will not drink the water. We are very generous. Also there are articles of diet that are set on our tables that are down and eat a piece of beef from a cancerous cow, yet you have done it. You are aiding and abetting this in your homes when you do not try to assist in remedying the evil. Mrs. Crane proposes to tell you the truth about it. You may be startled to hear these facts, but you should know them."

As a Sanitary Architect.

In the outset Mrs. Crane told the woman to whom he had been brought to Kentucky; yet she said that she had been a guest of Louisville and that she intended to remain on friendly relations with everybody. She said she felt that she came as an architect sometimes does; that is to point out some of the defects and also to assist to some extent in remedying has been charmed with it. She confessed that Louisville was by far the largest city that she has undertaken to make a study of. She first talked on the water supply of Louisville and the general sanitary conditions arising from water supplies. Said she:

"The dangers from the sewerage and water supplies increase in geometrical r-

In the increase of the waste products. Whether these waste products are disposed of on the surface or absorbed into the ground waters are contaminated by them. ends very badly in your city. You can redeem all this and make this creek beautiful as it winds through your city. Most of your territory here is capable of drainage by gravity. Your creek can therefore be restored to its pristine glory."

In alluding to the water supply Mrs. Crane said that filtration was promised at no distant day. This raised a laugh through the audience. Mrs. Crane also laughed, but added that she thought it would come before long. She said that although typhoid fever germs may not be found in the Ohio River water, yet to great harm. She spoke of cisterns that she discovered in certain sections of the city, which she declared unsanitary, as they were not properly covered and their bottoms were solutions of mud and other unwholesome stuff. She did not like the fact of drawing water from these cisterns.

"When I went into the slum districts of your city," said the speaker, "I found the residents using water from hydrants good water not for the few, but for all. She said a good water supply to a few and a bad supply to the many had a bad effect on all.

In one tenement house I found thirty-six families living in thirty-six rooms, and some of the families had as many as seven persons in them, and all these were forced to use water from one hydrant, which was at an inconvenient distance. All surface wells should be condemned.

TROUVEIL

Lincoln Statue With Fitting Ceremonies.

BIG CROWD TO GO TO HODGENVILLE TO-DAY.

ROBERT T. LINCOLN REACHES LOUISVILLE THIS MORNING.

LARUE'S CAPITAL IS READY.

The statue of Abraham Lincoln, presented by the United States Government and the State of Kentucky in memory of the martyred President, will be unveiled on the courthouse square at Hodgenville to-day, attended with ceremonies appropriate to one of the greatest men of the nation. Special trains will be run to the little capital of Larue county and it is expected that a great gathering of people will witness the ceremonies. Speeches will be made by Henry Watterson, Judge Ed C. O'Brien, of the court of Appeals in Kentucky, and Edward J. McInnes, of Louisville. The statue will be accompanied by the presence of Robert T. Lincoln.

A large platform has been erected on which the statue will take place. It will seat at least 300 people. On this platform, besides the speakers, will be seated Mrs. Ben J. Lincoln, sister-in-law of the martyred President, who will pull the cord that will unveil the statue. John M. Atterton, who will preside at the unveiling, George Du Bois, United States District Attorney, Logan C. Murray and others.

Rabbi Enslow To Deliver Invocation.

The ceremony will begin at 11 o'clock when the invocation will be delivered by Rabbi H. G. Enslow, of Louisville. At this hour all the trains will have arrived carrying visitors to Hodgenville to witness the ceremonies. The visitors will march from the depot to the courthouse square headed by a brass band, a committee of reception, of representative citizens of the town and county and a committee to assist the members of the Lincoln Memorial Association in taking care of the statue. The guests will witness the unveiling ceremony. After the ceremony the statue will be taken to the site of the statue, to be placed on its pedestal.

Three Trains Going.

Three trains are scheduled to leave Louisville this morning over the Illinois Central railroad for Hodgenville carrying visitors. Other trains will be run to Hodgenville from the west end of the city. The first train to leave the Seventh-street station will be the regular passenger train No. 230, leaving at 8 o'clock, which will be the Board of Trade special of Pullman cars. The next train will leave at 8:15 o'clock, composed of day coaches. The third train, carrying Robert T. Lincoln, will leave at 9 o'clock and will be turned over to the Illinois Central railroad at Hodgenville. It will be attached to one of the special trains for Hodgenville.

RICHMOND STUDENTS IN ORATORICAL CONTEST.

Elmer E. Gabbard, of Buckhorn, Awarded Gold Medal By Unanimous Vote.

Richmond, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The most exciting oratorical contest ever held here came off last night. Six of the leading students were members of this contest and fought bravely for the gold medal which was to be given to the winner.

The subject of the oration was "Woman Suffrage," and very able arguments were established in favor of woman's rights. Prof. Coates, of the city school, acted as judge. Prof. Coates presented the prize, which was given through the unanimous vote of the judges to Mr. Elmer E. Gabbard, of Buckhorn, Ky. The other contestants were as follows: Mr. John C. Nease, Miss Sallie Park, Mr. Leslie Anderson, Miss Schultz and Mr. S. B. Chandler.

SUGAR PLANTATION STRIKE IN HAWAII.

Honolulu, May 29.—An unconfirmed rumor that the sugar plantation strike extended beyond the island of Hawaii was circulated to-day, but was generally discredited, although demands have been made by the Japanese laborers of five plantations outside of the present disturbed section. Already the Japanese merchants and sugar plantation laborers are being urged to leave the island. One has absconded, leaving behind $2,000 in debts, and another has become bankrupt.

AWAKES TO FIND HERSELF DYING.

Evansville, Ind., May 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. E. Billis, who had never been in the hospital, died this morning at 1:30 o'clock. She was 62 years of age. She had been ill for some time, but was not seriously ill. She was found by her husband, who was in the hospital, and she was found to be dead.

EDITOR GRAVES PRAISES THE NEGRO.

New York, May 30.—John Temple Graves, formerly of Georgia police and newspaper editor, praised the negro to-day in an address at Carnegie Hall at an educational rally for the benefit of Morris Brown College, a negro institution of Atlanta. Mr. Graves thinks the negroes are showing more wisdom in their efforts to solve their race problems than are women suffragettes in their campaign for a legal right to vote. He also commended the attitude of the negro railroad directors in Georgia, who have refused to let a white man be a member of the Southern Railway Company, and in refusing to let a white man be a member of the Southern Railway Company, and in refusing to let a white man be a member of the Southern Railway Company.

TWO DAMAGE SUITS.

Women File Action In Bowling Green For Loss of Husbands.

Bowling Green, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—Two big damage suits were filed in the Circuit Court yesterday. One was by Mrs. Millie Dean, widow and administratrix of the late John W. of Main and College streets in this city he came in contact with a live wire, and to that of the Bowling Green Gaslight Company. He was precipitated to the ground, and as a result of his injury he died a week later.

The other suit was by Mrs. Jeanette Stewart, widow and administratrix of William M. Stewart, against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company. Stewart was an engineer for the company and in the performance of duty, it is alleged that he received injuries that resulted in his death. This suit is also for $25,000.

FIVE INJURED IN RAILROAD WRECK.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA TRAIN DERAILED THIRTY MILES EAST OF CHATTANOOGA.

Cedartown, Ga., May 30.—Five passengers and engineer, Homer Turner, were slightly injured when Central of Georgia passenger train No. 1 was derailed near Martindale, Ga., thirty miles east of Chattanooga at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The injured passengers are Mrs. Leatha Walker, Chattanooga; Mrs. Annie Carson, Chattanooga; Mrs. Walker, Chattanooga; Mrs. Carson, Chattanooga; and Mrs. Carson, Chattanooga. The engine turned completely over and the entire train was thrown against an embankment.

Within half an hour the company had physicians from Trion and LaFayette. The train consisted of two coaches, a baggage car and a baggage car. Superintendent Cotter announced that no cause for the derailment had been ascertained.

TO PAY HIGH HONOR.

FATHER C. P. RAFFO'S ANNIVERSARY TO BE REMEMBERED.

Celebration Will Take Place Wednesday and Thursday At St. Charles Borromeo Church.

In celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Charles P. Raffo, pastor of St. Charles church, Twenty-seventh and Broadway streets, a silver jubilee will be held next Wednesday and Thursday.

This will give all an opportunity after the ceremonies are over to visit the Lincoln monument. The State made an appropriation supplementing that made by the United States Government for the erection of the monument, and Gov. Willing represented the State to-day at the unveiling in an official capacity.
